Annual Scientific Meeting

November 17-19, 2017
Ritz-Carlton, Lake Oconee
Greensboro, GA

Sponsored By The Georgia Chapter Of The American College Of Cardiology

Charles Brown, III, M.D., FACC
President, Georgia Chapter of the ACC

Welcome to the 2017 Annual Meeting of the Georgia Chapter of the American College of Cardiology! We are delighted to be back at the Ritz Carlton on Lake Oconee. In our Eleventh year, our tradition continues! The Program Committee has worked hard to develop a curriculum encompassing relevant topics for your enjoyment.

This year's Conference will be divided into four major areas:

- 1) Controversial Topics in the Management of Coronary Heart Disease
- 2) The New Age of Heart Failure
- 3) Valvular Heart Disease
- 4) The Athlete's Heart.

Our sessions will start Friday afternoon, each topic will be introduced by a Keynote Speaker, a moderator will present a case study and subsequent panel discussion, including commentary from our audience members. It is a new format that I believe will be exciting and informative.

Saturday will begin with an update from the National ACC by Dr. Mary Norine Walsh, who plans to spend the weekend with us. There will be time to interact for a National perspective of the challenges facing Cardiovascular Medicine, and the approach our American College is taking.

Saturday morning will also herald another new forum, the Georgia Program Directors' Panel discussion, where representatives from Cardiovascular Programs through the state will discuss overlapping concerns circumventing delivery of cardiovascular services.

Saturday evening, the Lifetime Achievement Award will be delivered to Dr. Jerre Lutz, recognized for contributions to medicine and the ACC, to be followed by Rorke Denver, Navy SEAL Commander & best-selling author.

Sunday's session will include a Women in Cardiology Breakfast with ACC President, Dr. Walsh. We then have a very special guest, Health and Human Services Secretary Dr. Tom Price (invited), who will give us an update on the "State of the Union" of Healthcare. We will follow with a lively game of Jeopardy (FIT's vs. Faculty) and end with Georgia on My Mind.

As always, our goals for the weekend remain:

- Provide information that is relevant and practical to the care of our patients.
- Create a forum for dialog between fellow ACC members regarding the practice issues we face every day.
- Develop communication and relationships between our members and our industry partners.
- Explore the challenges facing us in the new era of healthcare delivery, as we march along the road from volume to value based services, and understand what the ACC is doing nationally, and what we might be doing locally and statewide.
 - Relax with family and friends.

I want to welcome each of you back to our Chapter's fabulous Annual Meeting and I hope to see as many of you as the Ritz can accommodate. Traditionally, we run out of rooms, so I encourage those of you who plan to attend to register early.

Sincerely,

Charles L. Brown III, MD, FACC

President's Welcome Annual Scientific Meeting

Georgia
CHAPTER

Jerre F. Lutz, MD, FACC

Our Chapter's Lifetime Achievement Award honors an adult or pediatric cardiologist or cardiovascular surgeon who has provided outstanding contributions to medicine through patient care, medical education, teaching, research or community service as a member of the Georgia Chapter of the American College of Cardiology and whose lifetime of service deserves special recognition.

Previous recipients include: Drs. Spencer King, William Plauth, Walker Beeson, Robert Ellison, Willis Hurst, Bruce Logue, Stephen Clements, Willis Williams, Nanette Wenger, John Douglas, Robert Franch, Stanley Sherman, Charles Wickliffe, Douglas Morris, Paul Douglass and Kenneth Dooley.

Dr. Jerre F. Lutz, a native of Oak Ridge, Tennessee, attended Emory University, where he met his future wife Carlin, both graduating with honors (Phi Beta Kappa). He then entered Emory School of Medicine, graduating in 1972, again with honors. He completed a residency in internal medicine, also at Emory, followed by a fellowship in cardiology. He was Chief Resident at Grady Hospital in 1976-77.

Dr. Lutz joined the United States Navy as a lieutenant commander and was assigned as Chief of Noninvasive Cardiology at the Naval Regional Medical Center in San Diego, where he taught house staff while practicing cardiology at the Camp Pendleton Marine Base. There he received a call from Dr. J. Willis Hurst who asked him to join the Emory faculty as Medical Director of the Cardiac Catheterization Lab at Grady Hospital. After a brief stint at Crawford Long, he moved back to Emory as an Associate Professor, opening multiple clinics and catheterization labs across the state. He served as Medical Director of the CCU at Emory until 2011 and as Medical Director of the Emory Heart Transplant Program until 1992. He also initiated and supervised the transition of the patients with congenital heart disease from CHOA to Emory.

Dr. Lutz is credited with being one of the early leaders of our Chapter that established the framework for the success we now enjoy. His leadership as Chapter Governor and President from 2001-2004 helped us develop the support of industry necessary to draw the outstanding faculty and large crowds that are now the hallmarks of our annual meeting.

Dr. Lutz has also led our Chapter's efforts on the national level through his leadership at the annual ACC Legislative Conference and ACCPAC. He served as a member of the ACC Government Relations Committee and Advocacy Committee and as our representative for ten years to ACCPAC. He is one of the 25 charter members of ACCPAC. He was recently named to the first class of the ACCPAC Advisory Board. Dr. Lutz also served on the GA/AHA Board of Directors for nine years.

Jerre and Carlin have been married for 46 years and have three sons, Jason, Brian and Drew, and six grandchildren. Jerre has coached soccer for 27 years with multiple divisional and state championships, is an avid golfer and spends many hours working on his home and acreage in Stone Mountain.

Commander Rorke Denver

Commander Rorke T. Denver has run every phase of training for the U.S. Navy SEALs and led special-forces missions in the Middle East, Africa, Latin America and other international hot spots. He starred in the hit film Act of Valor, which is based on true SEAL adventures. His New York Times best-seller, Damn Few: Making the Modern SEAL Warrior, takes you inside his personal story and the fascinating, demanding SEAL training program he now oversees. In his second book Worth Dying For: A Navy SEALs Call to a Nation, which was released in April 2016, Rorke tackles the questions that have emerged about America's past decade at war—from what makes a hero to why we fight and what it does to us. Rorke was most recently seen on FOX's American Grit. The series followed 16 of the country's toughest men and women as they face a variety of military-grade and survival-themed challenges set in the wilderness.

After completing the SEALs' legendary Basic Underwater Demolition program in 1999 (BUD/S Class 224), Denver began an action-filled 13-year career as a platoon commander and training leader with America's premier special-operations force. As assistant officer in charge of BRAVO Platoon at SEAL Team THREE, he was deployed to SOUTCOM, the Central and South American Area of Operations, where his platoon was the "alert" SEAL team for maritime interdiction, hostage rescue, counter-insurgency and counter-narcotics. As SEAL officer aboard the USS Bonhomme Richard, Denver led his group's response to a murderous uprising in the Ivory Coast nation of Liberia, launching advanced-force operations, conducting hydrographic beach reconnaissance and helping to get U.S. Marines safely ashore. At Special Boat Team TWELVE, he started the Maritime Capable Air Deployable Boat Detachment, which specialized in parachuting large assault boats from U.S. aircraft.

In 2006, Denver was officer in charge of BRAVO Platoon of SEAL Team THREE in Iraq's Al Anbar Province in one of the most combat-heavy deployments of any regular SEAL team since Vietnam. Stationed in Habaniya, his team conducted more than 190 missions including sniper operations, direct assaults, special reconnaissance and ground patrols. Two of his teammates were killed in action, including Mike Monsoor, who received the Medal of Honor for jumping on a live grenade to save his teammates. Denver's team has been widely credited with propelling the "Tribal Awakening" that helped to neutralize Iraq's Shia insurgency. Denver was awarded the Bronze Star with "V" for valorous action in combat.

After returning to the United States, Denver was appointed flag lieutenant to Admiral Joseph Maguire, commanding officer of Naval Special Warfare, traveling to Afghanistan and briefing Congress on SEAL operations. In 2009, he became First Phase officer of SEAL Basic Training including Hell Week, then rose to Basic Training officer. He went on to run all phases of training including advanced sniper, hand-to-hand fighting, communications, diving and language.

Denver is an honor graduate of the United States Army Ranger School. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Syracuse University, where he was an All-American lacrosse player and captain of the varsity lacrosse team. He earned a Master's Degree in Global Business Leadership from the University of San Diego.
